Subject: An introduction for [CLIENT BUSINESS]

Hi [CLIENT NAME],

You mentioned [SPECIFIC CALL-HANDLING PROBLEM]. Meet Grant, co-founder of Handled Calls.

Its virtual receptionist answers missed and after-hours calls, collects job details, and keeps requests in one place for your team. Grant can show you how it would fit [CLIENT BUSINESS] and help with setup.

Grant, could you arrange a short demo with [CLIENT NAME]?

If you decide to sign up, enter my partner code [PARTNER CODE].

Start with a real observation: for example, 'Your ads bring in calls after the office closes'. Ask before making the introduction.

Subject: Call coverage for [CLIENT BUSINESS]

Hi [CLIENT NAME],

[ONE RELEVANT OBSERVATION]. I thought Handled Calls might help with those calls.

Its virtual receptionist answers missed and after-hours calls, captures job details, and keeps the request ready for your team to review. Grant and the team handle the demo, setup, and support.

Send after the person asks for details. Replace the question with their actual concern, such as 'whether callers can request a particular service'.

Subject: The Handled Calls example

Hi [CLIENT NAME],

Here is the two-minute example we discussed: <https://www.handledcalls.com/#demo>

It is a recorded test call: the receptionist collects a plumbing request and offers an appointment. Your wording and booking options would follow your business setup.

You asked about [QUESTION TO CHECK]. Grant can walk through that with you:

Subject: A tool for calls you cannot pick up

If you run a home service business, a new call can arrive while you are on a job. Handled Calls is a virtual receptionist that answers missed and after-hours calls, captures the request, and keeps the details in a simple customer workspace. Booking depends on your saved availability and settings. Hear a recorded test call at <https://www.handledcalls.com/#demo> or book a walkthrough with the team. Use a real client need. Do not present the demo business as a customer result.

Subject: Covering calls while you are on a plumbing job

Hi [CLIENT NAME],

When you are under a sink, it is hard to pick up every call. Handled Calls can answer, collect the plumbing issue and service address, and leave a clear request for your team. With instant booking enabled, it can offer times from your saved availability.

Here is a two-minute plumbing example, recorded as a test call: <https://www.handledcalls.com/#demo>

Focus on ordinary service requests and seasonal workload.

Subject: Help with calls during busy HVAC days

Hi [CLIENT NAME],

During a busy heating or cooling season, calls can arrive faster than your team can answer. Handled Calls can pick up missed calls, collect the issue and caller details, and keep each request ready to review. Booking follows the services and availability saved in the app.

Would you like me to introduce you to Grant for a short walkthrough?

Describe routine job intake. Handled Calls is not an emergency or 911 service.

Subject: Call handling for [CLIENT BUSINESS]

Hi [CLIENT NAME],

When you are focused on electrical work, a ringing phone can interrupt the job. Handled Calls can answer missed calls, collect the service request and address, and give your team a clear summary. Optional instant booking uses your saved availability.

Would it help to see how this could work for [CLIENT BUSINESS]? I can introduce you to Grant, who handles the demo and setup guidance.

Use as a conversation guide rather than reading a list of features.

Handled Calls is for home service owners who cannot always answer while they work. Its virtual receptionist takes missed and after-hours calls, collects what the caller needs, and leaves the details in a simple customer workspace.

When instant voice booking is enabled, it can offer times based on the services and availability saved in the app. Otherwise, your team reviews the request. You keep your existing customer-facing number through call forwarding.

There is a 14-day card-backed trial, then a base subscription every 28 days plus call usage. Grant and the team handle the demo, setup guidance, and support.
